with his impeccable performance. His hilarious pearls of wisdom and unsolicited advice at the most inopportune time are some of the best moments of the film. Kriti Kharbunda is likeable in her special appearance.

Karwaan might not be the roller coaster ride you expected it to be, but it leaves you with a warm fuzzy feeling in the heart that says all's well that ends well. —Renuka Vyavahare sky and starts identifying it with the mythological Pushpak Vimaan. Now, his only wish is to go on a journey in the viman.

The story is not strong enough to hold an entire film and gets boring in between too. However, the songs and kirtans prevent it from falling flat. The treatment of the film and the way the characters and instances materialise is worth appreciating. But a film cannot hold fort on basis of just these two things. A strong story and identifiable characters are most important for a film to work and Pushpak Viman lacks these attributes.

In terms of performances, Mohan Joshi makes the most of his role and deserves a huge round of applause for his performance. Bhav's character has limited scope and he sleepwalks through it. Debutante Gauri Kiran as Vilas' wife is alright while Suyash Zunjarrao as Firoz is promising. Singer Rahul Doshpande also has a cameo in the film.

The music is the strength of this film and can help Pushpak Vimaan fly through.

A friendship bash for furry buddies

Friendship Day was celebrated with great fanfare in Nagpur yesterday. Just as humans, furry friends too attended various Friendship Day bashes organised by some of the city youngsters. One such party was organised at Ambazari Lake Garden, wherein a variety of activities were lined up for the pet pooches. They were even tied radium-studded friendship bands. Later, they were treated to delicious pet food too. The babies surely felt even more special by all the pampering they received on this occasion.
